Squaxin Island Tribe and Mason County commit to government-to-government partnering in order to ensure sustainable rural growth and fisheries

On March 22, 2018, Mason County and the Squaxin Island Tribe had an important lunch meeting and signed a letter of intent to work together on the longstanding problem of making sure that growth in the County’s rural areas does not come at the expense of salmon. The problem arises when too many homes in an area use wells that pump groundwater. Pumping during the drier late summer months can lower stream flows at a cost to salmon. Salmon need a sufficient amount of water in streams to support their life cycles.

The diminished flows will only get worse with climate change.

This problem has persisted for decades, as homeowners have been allowed to drill wells in basins without the county and state governments asking the hard question: What is the cumulative impact of these wells on fish-bearing streams? And, if there’s an impact, then what can be done to avoid or lessen the harm?

The Tribe voiced its concerns for years and tried to bring about changes. In February of this year, the Tribe challenged the County’s comprehensive plan because it didn’t do enough to ensure fresh water for salmon. Soon afterwards, the Tribe and County agreed to put a hold on the litigation while they addressed the thorny issue through settlement discussions. The luncheon meeting marked the two governments’ commitment to reset their relationship on water and fish issues. They also agreed to jointly develop work plans and to seek funding from the Washington Department of Ecology – all towards creating solutions for well into the future.

Chairman Cooper said, “We are ready to engage with the County in serious discussions over a topic that is near and dear to the Squaxin Island Tribe’s heart, that is making sure that there is enough water for fish.” Andy Whitener, Director of Squaxin’s Natural Resources Department, looks forward to the collaborative effort “so that our upcoming discussions bear fruit for our families and future generations.”
From Our Tribal Chairman

Our annual General Body meeting is upon us. I look forward to seeing everyone and hope our people will choose to come share this day together. It is important work of the people to participate in the elections, select well qualified leaders, listen to developments and concerns from the government, gather information and give input. But, besides a day to conduct business, it is also a special time for our tribal family to come together, catching up with each other, and sharing a delicious meal together. This is the largest yearly gathering of our tribe and a day to be positive, grateful, hopeful and enjoy each other’s company.

April’s Council Talking Circle was well attended, giving a time and place for people to speak directly to the council and to one another on topics they are interested in. I had a planned schedule for regular talking circles this past year, but it was difficult to keep on a good schedule when other things happened. We had talking circles, and even the January General Body meeting, cancelled this past year due to the loss of loved ones. Please keep those who have lost family members and loved ones this past year in your hearts and prayers. I will try harder again this year to see that talking circles are held on a regular basis.

We do have other important times for tribal input, such as the budget process and public hearings. These are advertised and people are encouraged to participate. We seldom have more than a few people come outside of our directors. And don’t forget Tribal Council meetings are held twice a month and are open to all tribal members. If you have suggestions or concerns, it is not difficult to get on the agenda, just call Melissa Puhn at 360-426-9781.

Our Elders hosted a great invitational luncheon on the 27th, with Elders coming from tribes throughout the northwest. Thanks to all who pitched in to make this happen. It warms my heart to see the smiles on our Elders’ faces and their eyes lighting up when they get to reconnect with friends and relatives they haven’t seen in a while. And always new friendships are made.

Good news - with the health of our community in mind, and with encouragement and input from both the tribal people and departments to make sure the community is getting what they want (within reason and budget) our fitness center will be taking shape real soon.

Running for Tribal Council

Alexandra Mirka

Hi. My name is Alexandra Mirka. I am considering running for Tribal Council at the next General Body meeting. My parents are Dana VanCleave and Gary Mirka. My grand father is Donald E Whitener and BJ and Andy Whitener are my uncles. I have lived in or around Shelton my entire life. For the past four years I have been living here in the community. I have worked in a number of different positions with the Tribe over the past six years. However, for the past two years I have, thanks to the Tribe’s Housing Program, been able to live a fairly quiet life as a stay-at-home mother raising my young son.

Many will know me and many will not. I am very appreciative of the opportunities the Tribe and current and past Tribal Councils have made available to my son and I as well as all other tribal members who decide to take advantage of the various tribal programs. I think that it is important that people of my generation get involved with decisions and activities that affect their daily lives. It is also important for us to do this so that we may learn from those who have gone before us.

My thoughts, since becoming a member of local community, have shaped and changed that which I see is significant to forming our future. By large, I see that keeping our land, water and culverts clean are significantly important as we are, People of the Water. Running community programs efficiently, is in its right, as important. Through better communication and collaboration with community and tribal members and the workforce, we can create an open dynamic that all would feel respected and loved by our people (government and individuals, alike). These are points that I am passionate about. I desire to learn more and engage in all facets of these areas and create a positive difference where I am able. I love our tribal nation and will apply myself to know more and do right by our side as a people.

Josh Mason

Hi. My name is Josh Mason, and I am running for the Tribal Council Treasurer position.

Just a little about me . . . I have been actively involved in tribal culture for many years because it is my top priority. I believe the teachings of our ancestors, and our arts, language, songs, canoe ways, and ties to our marine environment should set the foundation for all that we do as a tribe. I realize this personally through my own life as a carver, weaver, and member of the Canoe Family.

I also have business experience, having worked in management at Little Creek Casino Resort for many years.

What I propose to bring to Tribal Council is creation of a true vision statement for the future of our people. We need to evolve for the betterment of our Tribe while staying true to and focused on our true values. We can and must change, but we must do so with our culture and the wisdom of our ancestors leading the way.

Steven Dorland

Hello,

My name is Steven Dorland, and I am currently your Tribal Council Secretary. I am running for re-election. Serving in this position this last year has been a huge learning experience, and I have truly enjoyed it.

Many of know that I care deeply for our tribe and our future. It is my goal to ensure that we are able to continue as a strong, respectful, and loving tribe. I know there are many areas that need more attention; whether on Council or not I will continue to be a voice in those conversations.

I believe we have an endless amount of opportunities to improve our current and future programs. It’s time that we begin to move in this direction and start to lift each other up. This is our community and our say matters.

I’m asking for your consideration for the chance for a full term. I believe if I had a full term I could show you that I am a hard worker, compassionate and here for the people.

If you would like to discuss more in depth please feel free to contact me at (360)590-8756 or sdorland@squaxin.us.
Jeremie Walls

To all my friends, family and fellow Tribal members,

I would like to let you all know I am running for Council Secretary on May 5th at General Body.

In reflecting on how successful we are as a Tribe and how we got to this point, I've decided now might be a good time for me to offer my abilities to help lead us into the next chapter - our future.

I've had a unique opportunity to build a general construction company, Skookum Construction, that specializes in new residential and commercial builds. Our company will be seven years old on April 20th. We have been - and always will be – a strong advocate for Tribal employment here at home and throughout Indian country.

I am one of the 1st tiered geoduck harvesters and have been involved as a harvester and a boat captain for 24 years. As our Aquatics Committee Chairman for the past few years, I've had the pleasure of working with very passionate committee members who make decisions - together. I found out early in life that there is no “me” just “we.” We respect everyone's input and have learned that, although we have different approaches, we all strive for the same goals.

I have been championing our TERO (Tribal Employment Resource Ordinance) for about 3 years now. Without the help of our Tribal Council and the administration, we would not be so close to finally seeing our own office here at home. I would like to thank them for their continued support of our Tribal people.

I recently had a great opportunity to speak as a panel member at the small business expo hosted by the Juarez Group and the Puyallup TERO Office. While there, I was asked to share the story about how we built Skookum Construction and the efforts took to succeed in Indian Country. I think the most important message I was able to pass on is that if you are comfortable, you are not growing. Push yourself! I want everyone to believe in their abilities and to never take “no” for an answer. I believe our Tribal businesses and entities have an obligation to promote Tribal member hiring. By that I mean giving first right of opportunity to qualified Tribal members.

TERO requires 25% tribal hire. I don't believe that is a hard number to achieve. During the remodel on LCCR Tower #1, we maintained 50% for most of the build and didn't fall below 30% at the end. So, I know, if committed, it can be achieved.

These are ways for tribal people to gain training through work experience that can be faster and more efficient than schooling, because it provides a faster entry into the work force.

We are the largest employer in the Mason County and, because of that, we also have an obligation to our surrounding communities.

With regard to our natural resources, I am, and always will be, a strong proponent of protecting our resources because I fully understand the importance these resources for our community. I've had the opportunity to work in Natural Resources with the hatchery, net pens, and shellfish enhancement.

I was one of a few who had the unique opportunity to help construct two of our 1st tidal upwellers.

We now produce quite a bit of Manila seed at a very low cost. That was my first learning experience in seeing how important it is to manage and enhance our beaches to their capacity. There is a lot that goes into this process; the first is to assess the gravel required on each of our beaches to be able grow more product. I would like to see an increased enhancement effort with the state to ensure many more years of clam digging for our community. Shellfish are huge part of our social and economic structure as well as a cultural practice shared and passed down to our children.

Having been a geoduck diver for the past 24 years, a partner in owning two dive boats, and having had the pleasure of serving 20 divers under my care, I have seen a lot in this industry.

The State of Washington has declared that the management plan we adopted from them is failing. They want us to take a 100,000 pound decrease in our biomass. Being involved as Chairman and a committee member of the Aquatics Committee, I would like the opportunity to advocate for you and help establish the new management plan to ensure the future of geo-ducks in our region. I feel this plan will require extensive data collection as well as a solution for bringing our beds back faster. Our committee is looking into deep water cultivation. I believe with cooperation from Salish Seafoods, Clam Fresh, and Natural Resources, we can come up with an industry-leading proposal to take to the state level. The clock is ticking; we have been given two years to comply or have an alternative option in place.

I would also like to talk about our youth. Every year we hear how important our youth are and what we are going to do for them. I want to see the Tu Ha’ Buts Learning Center brought back to the level of success it was when I was the Assistant Youth Coordinator. We had a Youth Director with passion, vision, and a sense of pride in our kids that reflected throughout our community in the smiling faces of our now young adults and parents. When I worked there, long ago, we kept our gym open six days a week until 8:00 p.m. Even though it took until 8:45 to get ALL THE KIDS OUT. Hahaha!

This provided the children a safe environment where they could find a few slices of pizza, something to drink, and most of all, a smiling face if they needed to talk. I would like to think we made a difference and hope we can bring that family atmosphere back again. Youth services should be about prevention while providing a supportive structure for all children, regardless of their success in the classroom. The kids need to know we are here if things get rough at home. With this cooperation, we can use the resources we have to get them into tutoring, counseling, or whatever service that may be appropriate. It’s about building trust, one brick at a time.

My son is a Junior at the University of Washington this year. Go Dogs!!! I know firsthand the financial struggles parents face in supporting their children’s goals. I would like to see the Learning Center and/or 1% Charitable Fund make sure that our kids’ tuitions are paid 100% along with a housing stipend. If our hiring practices require college degrees, we need to support our children and future leaders 100%. If they are maintaining a certain GPA, we should make sure they have every opportunity to achieve their goals. These are not just our kids, but our future. Let’s make sure all our children succeed in whatever they want to achieve.

Seniors of our Tribe! Like our children, you are often overlooked. I always hear we need this or that for our seniors. What I see is not enough action. I would like to see the senior program strengthened and staff doubled. We need certified nursing staff making home visits to help take care of your medical needs. We need home care givers to help families with their responsibilities. As we get older, we start to accumulate higher healthcare bills. Maybe it’s time for another approach to help our seniors cope with ever-rising medical costs. These real-life struggles need to be addressed. I will be open to hear about your needs and concerns. We would not be here without the sacrifices you made for us.

In regard to our housing shortage, we are in dire need of single family, two-bedroom units. I believe a couple of these two-bedroom, six-plex units, in addition to some 3- to 5-bedroom units, should already have been in the planning stages. We need to make sure low-cost houses are available to low income tribal members, but we also need to investigate medium-priced housing opportunities for over-income tribal members. A healthy community includes people from all walks of life. We need to remember this is our village/community and nobody should feel like they are being pushed out. It is nice to have your family and community support close to home.

I would like to see us weigh our options for a transfer station located on reservation with set hours of operation and a recycling station manned by an attendant. This would be available to Tribal members on the reservation only.

The Tribe is currently working on solutions to our water and sewer needs and have confidence this is being addressed by the best possible people we have on staff. There are so many issues I could talk about, but I don’t want to lose your attention to the ones that I am most passionate about. I look forward to hearing feedback from you all, including criticism and any other ideas you might want to share. I hope for your support and a chance to work for our tribal community and promote government transparency.
What is the Skokomish Tribe up to?

For several years, the Skokomish Tribe has been trying to expand its Treaty fishing, hunting and gathering area into places where the Squaxin Island Tribe has significant interests and rights. In 2017, the Skokomish Tribe told a federal judge that it had Treaty fishing and shellfishing rights in portions of Hammersley Inlet, Totten Inlet, all of Oakland Bay, Eld Inlet, and their freshwater drainages.

Additionally, Skokomish claims hunting and gathering rights on the lands around these inlets, as well as the Satsop River drainage to the southwest. These are the very same lands that the Nisqually, Puyallup and Squaxin Indians originally relinquished to the United States in the Treaty of Medicine Creek.

To make matters worse, the Skokomish Tribe claims that its rights are “primary”, meaning that it is trying to exclude all other tribes from fishing, hunting and gathering there, including the Squaxin Island Tribe.

At the Council’s directive, the Squaxin Island Tribe’s Legal Department has strenuously objected to Skokomish’s efforts at every opportunity. Skokomish has filed three different court cases in which it claims these rights. Skokomish lost all three cases at the trial court level, and appealed two of its losses to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. Oral argument in Seattle is scheduled in one case, and the other one will be scheduled soon.

Youth Afterschool Program
Jerilynn Vail-Powell - April was a fun month, full of activities. During spring break the youth had a tour of Mima Mounds and learned about the surrounding area. We had a beach scavenger hunt at Jarrell Cove. The youth had fun making geoduck fritters, nettle soup, and homemade butter to put on their pancakes. We have plenty more fun planned for May – team sports, swimming, Family Night on May 10th. Please check out our May activity calendar and the flyers in this month’s Klah Che Min.

Homework Support and GED Preparation Classes Jamie Burris - I am here to help guide you along your individualized learning path Tuesdays and Wednesdays 4-7pm. I can help you complete your homework, study or help you find an engaging book to read for 20 minutes.

GED preparation classes are up and running! Come in to take a practice test to see where you are in your journey, what you still need to study or discover that you are ready to take the actual GED test! The GED test has 4 subjects: language arts (reading/writing), math, science and social studies. The test is made up of multiple choice, drag and drop, fill in the blank, short answer and extended response type of questions. Each test has a different amount of time allotted for it - ranging from 70 to 150 minutes. If you are a tribal member, the tribe will pay for your testing (saving you at least $30 per test)! For study tips, go to: www.test-guide.com. For more information, please go online at www.ged.com, or contact me at jburris@mccleary.wednet.edu.

Northwest Indian Youth Conference

The 2018 Northwest Indian Youth Conference was fantastic!

The Squaxin Island Youth Council committed themselves to hosting the 2018 Northwest Indian Youth Conference. After many months of preparation and hard work, the 2018 conference was held at Little Creek Casino Resort from April 1-5, 2018. The event brought together over 250 teens from around the region and featured a wide variety of presentations and workshops for teens to enjoy – from cultural learning to leadership development to health and wellness and more.

The event was a resounding success, bringing many thanks and great admiration for the Squaxin Island Tribe, the Squaxin Island Youth Council as conference hosts, and for the many people who helped to support such an incredible opportunity. In the words of Jody Richards, Prevention Coordinator for the Burns Paiute Tribe: “The best conference I have been to ever! Our youth enjoyed every minute and the breakout sessions were great! Speakers were great, the dinner & cultural sharing night was off the charts! And so much talent these youth have! GOOD JOB!!! YOU GALS ROCK!”

Thank You

YOUTH COUNCIL WOULD LIKE TO THANK EVERYONE WHO SUPPORTED AND HELPED US HAVE SUCH A SUCCESSFUL NORTHWEST INDIAN YOUTH CONFERENCE

Native American Finance Officers Association (NAFOA) selected Jaimie Cruz as one of six people nationwide to receive its prestigious Gen-I Career Success Fellowship award!

According to its website, NAFOA is making an investment to expand opportunities for Native American students. "We recognize that business and finance can be promoted as being a way to solve problems and improve society," the organization’s website says.

In November 2016, Native American youth ages 18-24 were invited to participate in the on-line Native American Career Success Academy (NACSA) program. The NACSA curriculum included two courses, personal finance and career preparation. Students who completed the online NACSA curriculum were invited to apply to the Gen-I Career Success Fellowship program.

The Gen-I Career Success Fellowship program was developed through a partnership with the Aspen Institute’s Center of Native American Youth (CNAY). CNAY is helping to connect their Gen-I National Native Youth Network - now over 4,000 strong - with NAFOA’s network of leaders in finance, business, and tribal economic development.

The goal is to build career opportunities for Native American youth through skill building, leadership development, and direct connections with employers. NAFOA recently completed the selection process for our 2018 Gen-I Career Success Fellowship program, and said, "We look forward to hosting these accomplished students and young professionals at this year’s Annual NAFOA conference in New Orleans."

“I am interested in the future of my people because my ancestors thought of me while making decisions,” Jaimie said. “I believe it is important to ensure the next generations are informed and have the tools needed to grow.

Fellows will expand their professional contacts by attending Gen-I and NAFOA networking events, luncheons, track sessions, and off-site visits. Preceding NAFOA’s 36th Annual Conference in New Orleans, fellows from across the country will participate in seminars led by top executives, managers, and tribal leaders who will help them advance their new skill set and prepare them for the job market. They will learn about innovative tribal enterprises and the unique products being created in Indian Country.

Fellows will also attend a national conference that facilitates dialogue between tribes, federal partners, non-profits, and professionals regarding tribal finance and economic issues.

Jaimie is excited to be awarded this fellowship and is grateful to all who have supported her. “Thank you for your continued support!”

"Whether it is my own tribe or the neighboring tribes it is important to be able to understand the possibilities of growth within our own communities.

Tribe economics is how we are able to provide for our people.

Hi! I’m a Board Certified Family Physician with 12 years of experience, including some in a tribal setting. I enjoy taking care of patients in all the stages of life, cradle to the grave, but I particularly enjoy women’s health and taking care of children. I’m also passionate about patient-centered, compassionate end of life care. It’s very important to me to empower patients with the health knowledge to take the best possible care of themselves and their families, and to be certain that I use medications only when absolutely necessary. I’m also a big advocate of preventing disease through vaccinations and appropriate cancer screenings. From personal and professional experience, I know the value of culturally appropriate care, so I try to understand and honor the traditions of my patients.

I’ve lived in Olympia for 10 years, and am mom to twin boys, Alonzo and Rhys, who are in first grade. I enjoy science fiction, cooking, planning new adventures for my boys, and participating in my community through service and advocacy.

I’m very excited to join the Health Services team here at Squaxin, and to begin getting to know you all as I help take care of your health care needs.

A Great Big Superhero Thank You!!!

To the Wonderful employees of Skookum Creek Tobacco Factory:

I would like to thank you for your generous donations of tee shirts for the Superhero capes on Absolutely Incredible Kid Day at the Squaxin Island Child Development Center. The project was a huge success. We were able to make the capes, headbands, and armbands. The children loved them and had a great time being superheroes for the day. I cannot thank you enough!

Canine Parvovirus (Parvo)

Canine parvovirus is a highly contagious viral disease that is one of the most common causes of diarrhea in dogs under 6 months of age. It first appeared in the late 1970s, and is one of the most frequent serious dog disease problems encountered in animal shelters. It is reported in coyotes, foxes and wolves and probably affects most, if not all, members of the canine family. Puppies are the most susceptible, and their clinical signs are worsened by concurrent infections with roundworms, other internal intestinal parasites, protozoa (such as Coccidia), viruses or bacteria. Adult dogs can also be affected.

In general, if aggressive therapy is initiated early in the course of the disease, the prognosis for puppies to recover can be excellent, although fatalities do occur. However, the mortality rate for puppies in shelters can be much higher because many shelters cannot diagnose, isolate or treat the cases. As for adult dogs, many become infected but never actually show clinical signs of disease. Rottweilers, Dobermans, pit bulls, German shepherds and Labrador retrievers seem to be at higher risk for the disease.

What Causes Parvovirus

Canine parvovirus is very stable in the environment and very resistant to most disinfectants. It can persist in organic material in the environment for over one year. Another member of this virus family is responsible for causing panleukopenia, more commonly known as distemper, in cats. (This feline parvovirus was present before the strain that affects dogs appeared. In fact, the first vaccination efforts to control canine parvo were made using feline panleukopenia vaccines.)

Different strains of parvovirus have evolved over the years since it was first discovered in dogs in 1978. The current strains infecting dogs in the United States are CPV-2b and CPV-2c, which also can cause illness and have been isolated from cats. In the shelter it is essential to separate dogs from cats, as cats can not only develop illness but also act as a reservoir causing further disease in dogs.

How Parvovirus Is Transmitted

Parvo disease is spread from dog to dog mainly through exposure to contaminated feces. It is also spread through contact with fomites (contaminated objects). Common fomites include hands, instruments, clothing, food and water dishes, toys and bedding. Insects and rodents can also provide a means for disease spread. The virus can remain on a dog’s hair coat and serve as a means of transmission long after recovery from clinical disease. The incubation period, or period between exposure to the virus and the appearance of symptoms, is usually 4-6 days. Because the disease may be difficult for the shelter to detect during the incubation period, apparently healthy animals with parvo may be adopted out only to become ill a few days later in their new home, causing heartache for the shelter staff and the new owners.

It is very important to know the shedding pattern of parvovirus in order to design an effective management, diagnostic and prevention strategy. Parvovirus can be shed in the feces 3-4 days after infection with the virus, which is generally before clinical signs of illness appear. The virus will also be shed in the feces for approximately 10-14 days post-recovery from clinical signs of infection.

Clinical Signs of Parvovirus

Parvovirus affects the digestive system and the heart. The signs can vary widely:

- There can be sub-clinical infection with no signs or mild signs of lethargy and appetite loss lasting for only one or two days
- The most common clinical symptoms shelters see are varying degrees of vomiting, foul-smelling diarrhea that can be very bloody, loss of appetite, fever, weakness, depression and dehydration
- Affected puppies are also very leukopenic, meaning they have too few white blood cells
- The heart symptoms are rarely seen today and usually occur in puppies infected in utero or during the neonatal period, but they can cause sudden death without other signs, sudden death weeks to months after apparent recovery from other parvo signs, or sudden onset of symptoms of congestive heart failure in puppies under 6 months of age

Recycling Facts

- If you lined up the plastic bottles tossed away each year, they would circle our planet four times.
- Energy saved from recycling a glass bottle can light a light bulb as long as four hours.
- Recycling saves money for our communities. Did you know that it costs only $30 per ton to recycle most materials? On the other hand, it costs up to $50 per ton to take garbage to the landfill. It takes $60 to $75 to burn it, which pollutes the air.
- People have been recycling their trash for thousands of years; ancient civilizations would melt down old metal products such as knives and swords and various metal household items to make coins and other new items.
- 75% of garbage is recyclable but we only recycle 30% in the US.
- The average person in the US throws out almost five pounds of garbage daily - that is 251 tons per year - per person!
- The typical American uses 17 trees each year in wood and paper products.
- Many of those products can be recycled.
- We toss away enough paper and wood annually to heat 50,000 homes for two decades.
- The typical American gets 500 pieces of junk mail annually. Most of this is simply thrown away. It takes millions of trees to produce all that junk mail.
- Recycle plastic bags by reusing them when you are at the grocery store or bring reusable cloth bags with you.
- Glass can be recycled many times.
- A single aluminum can will sit in a landfill for at least 500 years. All aluminum cans may be recycled.
- 17 million barrels of oil are used to produce the plastic water bottles consumed in the United States each year.
1968 the Year that changed history

1968 is considered the year that changed history and remains one of the most turbulent single years in US history, marked by historic social and political achievements, shocking assassinations, the Vietnam War, women’s liberation, transistor radios, and a spirit of rebellion against the established social norms which caused movements all over the world.

1968 was the dawn of the television age, the historic events of 1968 also played out on TV screens across the country, bringing unfiltered scenes of riots, war, and music home in a way that had never been possible before.

Where were you, what were you doing, what were you wearing, do you have a photo of you during 1968, what was happening in your life in 1968? The Squaxin Island Museum Library Research Center is working on an exhibit to recognize 1968 and those who have memories to share of the year.

Mima Falls
Check out this loop trail. The short falls are a bit underwhelming, but still a great way to enjoy the outdoors.

Submitted by Patty Suskin, Diabetes Coordinator - Mima Falls Trail is a 6.6 mile heavily trafficked loop trail located near Littlerock, Washington and part of Capitol State Forest. It features a small 25-foot rolling waterfall (underwhelming at best). The hike is easy (despite some massive muddy sections) and takes you through both old and new as well as cleared forests. The trail is best used from March until October. Dogs are also able to use this trail but must be kept on leash. Beware of horse poop along the trail. Consider bringing a map and compass to navigate the endless possibilities of equine loops, roads, and hiking trails around the falls. Combine Mima Falls East and West trails for a 15-mile whole day of exploring Capitol State Forest.

Take I-5 South to Exit 95 the Littlerock/Maytown exit. Follow Maytown Road through Littlerock as it turns into 128th Street for 3.7 miles to a T-intersection. Head left onto Mima Road SW for 1.3 miles to Bordeaux Road. Take a right on Bordeaux Rd SW and in .7 miles turn right onto Marksman Street SW. After 1 mile keep straight at the bend in the road. Follow the gravel loop until you reach the parking lot and Mima Falls trailhead at the end of the road on the left. From the trailhead, you will cross Mima Campground on Mima Falls Trail East. You will also cross a couple of wide overgrown roads. When Mima Falls Trail East converges with the Campground Trail, stay to the left continuing on Mima Falls Trail East. Mima Falls Trail East will become Mima Falls Trail West, just continue on. You will cross a footbridge over Mima Creek and the trail comes to a T. Take the left path at the T and you will come to the picnic table over the sound of Mima Falls. The footpath down to viewpoints of the bottom of the falls is right next to the table. There is also another footbridge that looks over the top of Mima Falls.

The Littlerock Grocery, on the corner of Maytown and Littlerock Roads, sells the DNR trail map of Capitol State Forest (highly suggested).

What is a Whole Grain?

When grains grow in the fields, they have three edible parts: the outer bran layers, rich in fiber and B vitamins; the germ, full of antioxidants; and the starchy endosperm.

If the bran and germ (the healthiest parts) are removed, the grain is said to be refined. Refined grains are missing about two-thirds of many essential nutrients. Some grains are then enriched but this only returns about five of the missing nutrients.

Your best bet for good health? Look for whole grains. Even if they have been ground into flour, or rolled into flakes, they’re still whole grains if all of the three original parts are still present in their original proportion.

These grains are available through WIC

Brown Rice
Bulgur
Oatmeal
Whole Wheat and Corn Tortilla

Choose Whole Grains at Every Meal

Breakfast
Switch to whole grain breads and cereals, a bowl of oatmeal or a multigrain waffle or pancakes.

Lunch
Choose 100% whole wheat breads for sandwiches. Make a salad or soup with brown rice or bulgur wheat.

Dinner
Brown rice or 100% whole wheat pasta can promote more fiber and nutrients.

Shopping Tip
You can choose a combination of whole grain choices up to the amount of ounces (oz) printed on the WIC check. Breakfast cereals don’t count as a whole grain choice for your WIC checks. See pages eight and nine in your WIC shopping guide for choices of breakfast cereals.

More Tips for Handling Stress - especially for women
Submitted by Patty Suskin, Diabetes Coordinator

How can I help handle my stress?
Don’t let stress make you sick. Women tend to carry a higher burden of stress than they should. Often they aren’t even aware of stress levels. Women should listen to their bodies so that they know when stress is affecting their health. Here are ways to help women handle their stress:

- Talk to friends. Talk to your friends to help you work through your stress. Friends can be good listeners. Finding someone who will let you talk freely about your problems and feelings without judging you does a world of good. It also helps to hear a different point of view. Friends will remind you that you’re not alone.

- Get help from a professional if you need it. Talk to a therapist. We have excellent staff at Behavioral Health. Call 360.426.1582. A therapist can help you work through stress and find better ways to deal with problems. There are medications that can help ease symptoms of depression and anxiety and help promote sleep.

- Write down your thoughts. Have you ever typed an email to a friend about your lousy day and felt better afterward? Why not grab a pen and paper and write down what’s going on in your life. Keeping a journal can be a great way to get things off your chest and work through issues. Later, you can read through your journal and see how you’ve made progress.

- Help others. Helping someone else can help you. Offer to help a neighbor or volunteer in your community.

- Set limits. When it comes to things like work and family, figure out what you can really do. There are only so many hours in the day. Set limits with yourself and others. Don’t be afraid to say “no” to requests for your time and energy.
