Ecology, Squaxin Island Tribe secure more than $1.5 million in conservation grants

Sean Wells May 13, 2019, OLYMPIA — Washington Department of Ecology and Squaxin Island Tribe recently announced more than $1.5 million in secure funding in National Coastal Wetlands Conservation grants.

The Skookum Valley Wetland Acquisition received $564,000 in grant funding. Working in partnership with the Squaxin Island Tribe, the funding will be used to help acquire and permanently protect 158 acres of wetlands and shorelines along Skookum Creek that flows directly to Puget Sound in Mason County.

West Oakland Bay Restoration Phase 2 received $1 million in grant funding. Department of Ecology officials working along side the Squaxin Island Tribe partnered to put the second phase of restoring critical coastal wetlands in place in West Oakland Bay in Shelton. The project will restore 28 acres of salt marsh, lost when an industrial harbor was created more than a century ago.

The program is managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and funded in part through taxes paid on equipment and fuel purchases by recreational anglers and boaters. Established in 1990, the federal conservation program provides up to $1 million for individual wetland projects in coastal and Great Lake states as well as U.S. territories.
Governor Inslee Signs Washington Indian Health Improvement Act

Bill creates stronger collaboration between Tribes, urban Indian health organizations, and state

Olympia, Wash.—A bill that will change the way healthcare funds are invested in Tribal and urban Indian health organizations was signed by Governor Jay Inslee Tuesday, May 7.

The Washington Indian Health Improvement Act (SB. 5415) will help the state of Washington, Tribes, and Urban Indian Health Programs increase access to care, strengthen continuity of care, improve population health, and strengthen cultural effective practices.

The bill also permanently authorizes the Governor’s Indian Health Advisory Council and mandates the first Indian Health Improvement Advisory Plan. The Governor’s Indian Health Advisory Council consists of representatives from all 29 federally recognized Tribes in Washington, CEOs of two Urban Indian Health Programs, four legislative members representing the majority and minority caucuses in the House and Senate, and one member representing the Governor’s Office.

“The level of trust and participation by all parties involved brings a lot of hope for the future health of Native communities in Washington,” said Vicki Lowe, executive director of the American Indian Health Commission (AIHC). “We are providing a model that we hope to see replicated throughout the country.”

AIHC took a lead role in the development and legislative advocacy for the bill. AIHC is a Tribally driven nonprofit organization dedicated to improving health outcomes for American Indians and Alaska Natives through state level health policy, advocacy, and programs. It consists of Tribal and urban Indian representatives who work on behalf of the 29 federally recognized Indian Tribes and two Urban Indian Health Programs in the state.

The federal government has a fiduciary obligation to provide healthcare to American Indians and Alaska Natives. The traditional Medicaid program is jointly funded by states and the federal government, and the federal matching percentage varies by state. The federal government incentivized states by covering 100 percent of Medicaid costs for American Indians and Alaska Natives.

This legislation establishes a Tribal reinvestment account that leverages the state costs savings and reinvests those dollars into the Indian healthcare system.

The Washington Indian Health Improvement Act was introduced in the 2019 legislative session by Senator John McCoy (D-38) and Representative Steve Tharinger (D-24). The bill was approved unanimously by the Washington State legislature in April. For more information about the Washington Indian Health Improvement Act, visit...

Governor directs state agencies to ramp culvert repair
Jeff Chew May 23, 2019, OLYMPIA — Gov. Jay Inslee has ordered the Washington State Department of Transportation to begin the immediate ramp-up of culvert repairs around the state, an urgent and crucial priority for improving fish passage and salmon recovery.

Culverts are pipes that allow streams or water to flow under or across a roadway or railroad. State officials estimate there are about 2,000 culverts statewide, however, nearly half of them are too small or too damaged and actually impede the ability of salmon and other fish to reach their spawning ground.
In 2001, the U.S. government sued Washington state on behalf of 21 Northwest tribes, saying the state is depriving tribes of their fishing rights by failing to ensure adequate fish passage.

A U.S. district court ruled in favor of the tribes in 2013 and ordered the state to replace those 1,000 culverts, and set a deadline of 2030 for about 490 of the highest priority barriers. The U.S. Supreme Court upheld that decision last year. WSDOT estimates it will cost about $3.7 billion to fully meet the court’s order.

Inslee proposed a plan in December that established a dedicated funding source that would provide $275 million in the 2019-21 biennium and $700 million per biennium starting in 2021. The funding would allow WSDOT to more than double its current pace of culvert repairs. In addition to meeting the court’s order, the culvert repairs are part of the governor’s plan to increase Chinook salmon prey for southern resident orcas. However, legislators decreased funding for culverts from $108.5 million in 2017-19 to merely $100 million in 2019-21.

As he completed signing the new 2019-21 state transportation budget, Inslee voiced significant frustration with state lawmakers saying, “The Legislature this year made commendable progress on an incredible number of issues, from climate to education. But their inability to address the billions of dollars needed to fund necessary culvert repairs around the state is unacceptable. This is a matter of urgency. And not just because the courts have told us so. The fate of our salmon is intrinsically tied to our tribes, our orca, our economy and our very identity.”

Veterans Memorial Boardwalk

Honoring Their Service • Revitalizing Our Community

Creating an immediate, positive impact on downtown Shelton, the 700-foot raised Veterans Memorial Boardwalk will honor generations of Mason County veterans who served their nation’s call.

Located beside the historic Pear Orchard, the Veterans Memorial Boardwalk presents a strong icon of civic pride at a key entryway to the downtown Shelton business core.

Supported by a new Mason Transit Park-n-Ride and other landscaping improvements, the Boardwalk will provide a welcoming presence and bridge-like connection for transit riders, visitors and, most of all, American veterans, to walk with pride along Mason County’s only Veterans Memorial built with local materials, donations and labor.

You can make a difference too, when you honor a veteran by purchasing a plaque, or donate in some other way.

Squaxin Receives New Transit Bus

Squaxin Island Transit received a new transit bus on Tuesday, May 7, 2019. It was purchased through a grant from Washington State with 20% matching funds from the Tribe.

As always, it has a front loading bicycle rack and is handicap accessible with the lift being moved to the back. It will seat up to 20 passengers or 16 passengers and 2 wheelchairs. New features of this bus include a padded interior to keep outside noises at a minimum and inside dimmable LED lighting for the comfort of our early morning winter passengers. Also, to keep our small passengers safe, it includes a toddler seat and two child restraint system hooks to accommodate child infant or car seats. Another safety feature is a backup and dual vision camera the drivers are looking forward to using.

Squaxin Transit has one full-time driver, two part-time drivers, and one supplemental driver who serve the Squaxin Island Reservation area, Steamboat Island, and McCleary/Elma. We also operate two direct service trips to and from Shelton on Mondays for the convenience of our Reservation shoppers.

Squaxin Island Public Transit began service in December 1999 boasting 460 passengers. We have grown considerably over our nearly 20 years of operation, giving 1,550 passengers a ride in April and almost 20,000 passengers in 2018.

We work closely with Mason Transit Authority, coordinating our schedule with theirs and utilizing their maintenance shop to keep our buses in safe working order.

Look for it on the route soon.

Take the bus, leave the driving to us!

2019 SPRING CLEAN-UP SUCCESS

“The People of the Water” step up for the community and the environment.

Fewer dumpster loads to the landfill. Tons of items responsibly recycled.

This year the Office of Housing, with approval from Tribal Council and executive leadership, applied new strategies to the annual Spring Clean-Up. We’re pleased to report that the results were positively positive!

New features of the program this year:

- A secure site protected by temporary fencing
- A location in the sight line of Law Enforcement’s cameras to discourage abuse of the program
- Restricted access—proof of community residence was required
- On-site attendants to help with off-loading and sorting for recyclables
- Efficient loading of dumpsters thanks to people power and a little help from heavy equipment
- Coordination with Tribal employment programs to recruit helpers

Four fewer dumpster loads to Mason County Garbage than last year

30,500 pounds of scrap metal recycled
96 tires removed
2 loads of e-cycle materials properly disposed of
10 vehicles hauled away with owner permission

With a big thanks to the community for pitching in!

- Folks with time and trucks helped Elders and others get their stuff taken to the dumpsters.
- Reusable items were rehomed with informal swaps between neighbors.
- New homes were found for: 3 bicycles, 1 dining room table and chairs, large dresser, nightstand, set of dishes, fishing corkline, gaming controls, 1 tire and wheel, kitchenware.
Graduation Matters Shelton!
Attendance Policies and Procedures for the 2019-20 School Year

The goal of Graduation Matters Shelton is that every student graduates ready for college or career – in other words: Ready for Life.

Educating our children is a partnership between schools and families. For students to be successful, they must attend school regularly – every day, all day, on time. When students miss school, they miss out on important learning. The State of Washington requires all parents of students eight years or older to have their children attend school full time. Once enrolled, students aged six or seven are also required to attend school full time. Not sending students to school is a violation of state law. Schools are responsible for making sure students achieve grade level standards each year.

There is a lot of ground to cover in a school year – and every day counts. Families can support their students by:
- Making every effort to get your child to school on time every day, beginning in kindergarten. Students learn important foundational skills – including how to read – during the kindergarten year. Missing school during kindergarten could put your child behind from the very start and make it difficult to ever catch up.
- Notifying the school right away if your child will be absent. Absences are usually excused when an absence is due to:
  - Illness, medical appointment, or family emergency;
  - Participation in a district-approved activity or instructional program;
  - Religious or cultural purposes;
  - Court or judicial proceedings;
  - Post-secondary school visit or scholarship interview;
  - State recognized search and rescue activities;
  - Student’s homeless status;
  - Disciplinary or corrective action;
  - Deployment activities of a parent or guardian;
  - Other reasons agreed upon by the school principal and family.
- Providing the school with documentation of an excused absence as soon as possible. Without documentation within five days (phone call, written note, etc.) of student’s return to school an absence will permanently be considered unexcused.
- Eliminating late arrivals to school in the morning, early departures from school in the afternoon, and unexcused absences whenever possible. When students are absent from class at any time during the school day it can have a negative impact on their learning.
- Helping your child complete any work they miss when absent due to either an excused or unexcused absence, or to a disciplinary action or suspension.
- Notifying the school right away if your phone number, mailing address, or email address change.

When a student is absent from school, school staff will make every effort to contact the parent or guardian. It is imperative that parents/guardians provide correct contact information and update it with the school when necessary. It is the responsibility of the school to make sure parents know when a student is absent. When a student has unexcused absences, the school will do the following:
- After one unexcused absence, make a phone call or send a warning letter;
- After three unexcused absences within any month, schedule a parent conference to discuss options to help the student attend and be successful in school;
- No later than the fifth unexcused absence in a month, enter into an agreement with the family establishing attendance requirements and supports to eliminate barriers to the student coming to school.
- After the seventh unexcused absence in a month, or tenth unexcused absence in the current school year, file a petition and affidavit with the juvenile court alleging a violation of RCW 28A.225.010 by the parent, student or parent and student. The school may file the petition sooner, and the court may refer the case to a Community Truancy Board.

It is up to the school principal to determine whether an absence meets the criteria to be excused or not.

Whether absences are excused or unexcused, when they become excessive they can have a negative impact on a child’s education. The Shelton School District defines “excessive absenteeism” as more than 12 absences (excused or unexcused) during the school year. When a student is excessively absent -- for 12 or more days in a school year -- the school may intervene as if the absences were all unexcused.

Late arrivals (tardies) and early departures can also have a negative impact on a child’s education when they are excessive. Tardiness is defined as not being in the classroom at the assigned start to the instructional day or secondary class period.

For the full text of Shelton School District Policy and Procedure 3122 Excused and Unexcused Absences go to the district website:

http://www.sheltonschools.org/Board/Policies/Forms/AllItems.aspx

Remember, by attending school every day on time your child is learning important life skills and responsibilities. Attendance matters every day, every year. The Shelton School District will work with your family to make sure your child has every opportunity to be successful. We’re counting on you to do your part! There are community and school resources available to help those families that are struggling with truancy. Please ask your school’s secretary, reach out to the district office, or visit the Attendance Resources Page of the Shelton School District website at:

We look forward to partnering with you.

Higher Education Updates

Mandy Valley - Just a reminder that summer quarter is by special request only! You must write a special request letter to the Education Commission in addition to providing the signed Memorandum of Commitment, your summer class schedule, and official grades from spring 2019. The deadline for summer 2019 is June 7th. Also, August 9th is the deadline to turn in all completed paperwork for the 2019/2020 school year. Paperwork can be picked up at the Tu Ha’ Buts Learning Center between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. If you have any questions or need any assistance, please feel free to give me a call at (360)432-3882, or send me an email at mvalley@squaxin.us.
GED and Homework Help Update
A big THANK YOU to Jamie Burris! GED prep instruction and the afterschool homework support program are facing significant changes as we move forward. Jamie Burris has opted to discontinue in this contract role, and we wish her and her family the best for everything her future brings. She has spent the last ten years helping Squaxin students learn new concepts, complete their homework, study for the GED, and earn their high school diploma or GED certificate. The TLC is establishing plans for this support to continue in the fall. Until then, we raise our hands to Jamie, and ask that you join us in thanking her on behalf of the many students she has helped over the last decade.
Afterschool Program News

Jerilynn Vail-Powell - We are proud of the youth for completing another school year! Time sure did fly by. If families have not already done so, please stop by to complete your new registration packet for Summer Rec. For 2019, and due to the changes in the Shelton School District school year, Summer Rec 2019 is planned to run nine weeks and begins on Monday, June 24th. Forms will also be available on the Squaxin Island Tribe’s website under “Summer Rec”. Completed forms can be returned upstairs to Redwolf. We look forward to seeing all the youth this summer!

A few helpful tips for Summer Rec:

• It will be helpful on field trip and swimming days if youth could bring have backpack labeled with their name. This will help them keep track of all their things.
• With options for being picked up by a parent, being picked up by another authorized adult, or walking home on their own - if your youth will be doing something different than you indicated on the back of the registration form, please call or write the staff a note.
• As a safety precaution, we ask that parking at the TLC be in the authorized parking spaces. If vehicles are parked in front of the upper or lower ramps at the TLC, it can become more challenging for the youth to see around and walk around them when crossing the street.
• For a number of reasons, we encourage youth to leave their electronics (games, tablets, etc.) at home. We are concerned that they may become lost or damaged in multiple ways.

Tutor News

Lynice May and Lynn White - The 4th Annual Squaxin Island First Grade Field Experience was fantastic! Three hundred 1st grade students from Bordeaux, Evergreen, and Mountain View Elementary schools participated in cultural and environmental activities over a three-day period. “Fantastic!” “Wonderful!” “Amazing!” were some of the words Shelton School District 1st grade teachers used to praise the Squaxin Island Tribe field experience held at the Collier House on April 16, 17, and 18, 2019.

Students, too, seemed to enjoy the field experience. Here is a sampling of our young 1st graders’ comments: Thomas said, “I loved the storyteller, especially when she told us about Ravens and how they can imitate our speech.” Luke said, “I liked the beach and learning about Squaxin Island.” Maddi concurred, “I liked the beach discovery and finding shells and stuff.” Ava said, “My favorite part was the touch tanks.” Emilia said, “I really liked making the family dolls.” Lillian said, “I liked making the raven mask and listening to the story about Raven letting the sun escape out of the box.” Weston said, “The big starfish was amazing.”

This year, Peggy Peters, the Squaxin Island Tribe Education Liaison, and Candace Penn, an environmental scientist with the Squaxin Island Department of Natural Resources, added three new stations to the four existing ones - the storyteller station, the beach discovery, the estuarium, and the touch tanks. Adding more stations expedited flow and increased opportunities for student participation.

We wish to recognize all who helped make our 4th annual field experience a success. First, thank you to our Squaxin Island Elders who held the children in rapt attention with their vivid narrations of traditional Native American stories. Thank you Charlene Krise, Sally Brownfield, and Peggy Peters. A very special thank you goes out to Lisa Johns and Ruthie Whitener from the Squaxin Island Museum for providing us with two of our new stations.

At one station, Lisa Johns helped the children make ceiya (family) dolls, letting each child choose to make either a Kya (Grandma), Sappa (Grandpa), Tskoy (Mom), or Boad (dad) doll. At the museum's second station, children listened to a traditional Native American story about Raven, while they glued and colored replicas of the raven headdress. Squaxin Island tutor Lynice May, and Shelton School Board member Sally Brownfield also assisted at the Raven station. At our third new station, Squaxin Island tutor, Julie Young, manned a hands-on sand table that allowed the children to see the affects of erosion within an ecosystem, using sand, water, and dyes.

Once again, the Puget Sound Estuarium did an awesome job teaching the children about the importance of our wetlands that act like sponges to clean up our water and provide a habitat for many animals. At this station, the students saw the potential impact of pollutants from towns and cities that border our wetlands. A big thank you to Aeriel Wauhob, Bob Wharton, Ralph Silda-Berry, Annie Burks, and Paula Craft.

Candace Penn oversaw the touch tank station, always a favorite with the children. This year Candace enlisted fellow workers from the Squaxin Island Department of Natural Resources - Eric Sparkman, shellfish biologist; Dakodah Vigil, fish tech; and Rana Brown, shellfish biologist - to dive with her in the Salish Sea inlet for the wondrous and diverse creatures that filled our touch tanks.

A big thank you to Redwolf Krise who greeted the children with song and drumming and later filled in as guide at the beach discovery station. Finally, thanks go also to Squaxin Island tutor Lynn White for keeping time and making sure groups flowed smoothly from station to station, as well as doing our photography.
Flea Facts and Myths
Think you know everything there is to know about fleas and their impact on pets? Read these little known flea facts and common flea myths that can solve all your flea related doubts.

Flea Myth 1 – A few fleas are okay to have
This is one of the greatest of all flea myths and hundreds of pet owners are under this misconception. The fact is that fleas multiply as rapidly as rabbits and even a single flea can multiply to 1000 fleas in 21 days on your pet. Pets that are highly sensitive to flea antigens can get greatly disturbed by even a single bite. Additionally, flea bites can be terrible for humans as well.

Flea Myth 2 – Fleas can fly
Fleas cannot fly but did you know these related ‘un-fun’ flea facts? Fleas can jump 150 times their own body size; they can jump 30,000 times in a row without stopping, and can also jump left or right in opposite directions with every jump!

Flea Myth 3 – A flea infestation is easy to deal with Pet-owners believing in such flea myths are probably unaware of these flea facts: A single female flea can lay nearly 2000 eggs in her lifetime (nearly 40 to 50 each day!). Furthermore, a single flea can consume nearly 15 times her own body weight in blood every day. Each flea can live for nearly 3 months during which period it can cause a great deal of anxiety to your pet.

Flea Myth 4 – We should use preventive flea measures only in the warmer months
The little known flea facts include the truth that flea protection is necessary all year round but especially in the warmer and humid environments.

Flea Myth 5 – After the flea treatment is over, pet owners can rest assured
This is the biggest of all flea myths that many pet owners believe in. They even stop treating their pet, thinking the fleas are gone for good. The fact is: fleas are just going to return after a few months. Additionally, many pets are very sensitive to fleas and to their excreted matter and their eggs; all these can lead to allergic condition or dermatitis that causes itching, hair loss and lesions on the pets. Thus: flea control is a continuous and lifelong process.

Flea Myth 6 – Spraying the home and yard with flea control products is all you need to do
Important among all flea facts is the logical step that merely treating the pet’s environment is not enough. Fleas should be controlled on the pet itself otherwise they are simply going to feed and lay eggs on it.

Flea Myth 7 – The more flea products the better
This is one of the most dangerous of all flea myths that owners believe in. Many owners end up using multiple flea products, believing that they are acting in their pet’s interest. An important one among all flea facts is that one must never use a flea shampoo along with a flea dip or other flea products without the vet’s approval. This will cause the pet to take in too much of the unapproved products that can do more harm than good. Similarly, if you have a cat and a dog as well, you cannot use the same products for the two, but must inform your vet so s/he can prescribe appropriate products for either pet.

Flea Myth 8 – Flea products are toxic
This depends on the particular flea control product you use. Today, there are several FDA approved flea products available in the market. Prescription flea control agents have been created by the veterinarians (many of who also use them on their own pets). These flea control agents have been tested extensively by the FDA and guarantee the safety for humans as well as the animals. From Gus the doggie guy

Did You Get Screened?

Submitted by Patty Suskin, Diabetes Coordinator - The lobby at the event center at Little Creek Casino Resort was full of activity from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, May 4th. Squaxin Island Health Clinic and Behavioral Health Outpatient (BHOP) staff were busy screening for diabetes (A1c blood test), blood pressure, and depression (PHQ-2). In addition to the screening, suicide prevention information was available along with dental giveaways and an opportunity to schedule appointments.

After all the screenings, people received a shopping bag and could take a photo at the photo booth coordinated by Jenn Motteler from Squaxin Island Department of Information Services.

Thank you to those who took the time to be screened and to staff participating.

If you have pre diabetes, you can prevent or postpone diabetes by losing 5-7% of your weight (losing 10-14 pounds if you weigh 200#) and being active for at least 150 minutes a week (at least 30 minutes a day, 5 days a week).

Doctor’s Corner:

Taking PRIDE in Our Clinic

By Angela Tobias MD from the Squaxin Island Health Clinic - Happy Pride month!

In June we celebrate the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Trans, Queer/Questioning, Intersex, Asexual and other (LGBTQIA+) community and all they bring to our society.

Most of us know and love someone who is a member of the LGBTQIA+ community, whether we know it or not. But did you know that more than half of LGBTQIA+ people have experienced health care discrimination in some form in their lifetime? Whether it’s being mis-gendered, or a doctor assuming someone is straight or reacting badly when they find out that someone is not straight, or someone being refused care outright because of their identity, the doctor’s office can be an awkward or even traumatizing experience. Add that to Native heritage and this is a group that has faced double discrimination in the health care setting far too often.

This leads to LGBTQIA+ folks avoiding the doctor’s office, putting off care they really need, and not getting appropriate and culturally competent preventive health care, which leads to a lot of illness and death that could have been prevented. But here, everyone is valued. And you are accepted, exactly as you are.

My view has always been that judgment has never made anyone healthier, and I’m not here to judge anyone anyway. I’m here to help you.

LGBTQIA+ people have some unique health needs (but also have all the same health needs as everyone else), and need to be able to trust their health care provider enough to be completely honest with them about anything and everything that’s on their mind.

Kids who might be questioning their sexual orientation or gender identity need to have a dependable source for medical information and a safe place to ask challenging questions.

People who have been sexually assaulted or abused (who are disproportionally represented in the LGBTQIA+ community, especially if they are also Native) need trauma-informed care providers to help them heal.

Partners are welcome here as well! Families come in lots of different ‘flavors’ and we know they always have. Your whole family, whatever ‘flavor’ it comes in, is welcome here.

For anyone who is not yet open about their identity, or who is not yet sure about their identity, let me assure you that this is a safe place to ask questions and trust that your information will remain confidential. In small communities, confidentiality is so much more important than it is in larger places, and we understand that. If you need confidential care at any time, please just advise staff when you call that your visit needs to be confidential. And for all visits, as always, please trust that what is said in any of our exam rooms will stay private, unless there is imminent danger to yourself or others.

In recent years, medical science has been able to define the significant, long term health effects of the daily toll it takes on a person to exist in the world without being able to be your full, authentic self due to fear of discrimination or violence. No one knows this more than Native people, who have had to fight to regain their full culture and identity after centuries of suppression, colonization, and violence.

In this clinic we respect and uplift the whole person each time we treat a patient. So please, bring your whole self, and anything that’s bothering you, when you come to see us!
